HEAD CRUSHED BY ELECTRIC CAR.

Fred Kruck Foreman at Greenville Tannery Struck Near New Market Hotel—Taken to Hospital Seriously Injured.

Fred Kruck, a foreman at the Greenville tannery of the Norwich Bell Manufacturing company, received what may prove fatal injuries Tuesday evening about 8:30 o'clock by being struck by an electric car on the road to Taftville near the Newmarket hotel.
The injured man, whose forehead was badly crushed by the blow, was taken to the Backus hospital, where he was operated upon. He was reported to be in a very serious condition at an early hour this morning.

The car which struck Mr. Kruck was driven from Franklin square toward Taftville, in charge of Motorman Lyons and Conductor Maynard. The motorman reported that the first he saw was the man he was standing on the track, in a somewhat stooping position, with his head leaning forward, so that it received the full force of the blow from the dashboard, hurling him out and away from the car. Motorman Lyons stopped the car at once and the injured man, who was unconscious, was picked up and carried into the Newmarket hotel. Starter John W.
Kinney at Franklin square was noti-

BUSINESS BEFORE THE CIVIL SUPERIOR COURT

Maynard Divorce Case Heard and Decision Reserved—Collins Appeal from Probate Today.

The civil superior court was in session at New London Tuesday, when the divorce case of Joseph W. Maynard of Norwich vs. Ida May Maynard of Fisher's Island was heard. Judge Ralph Wheeler, who is sitting on this case, reserved decision in the divorce case.
The case was a strongly contested one.
Maynard admitted the technical description, but claiming that it was made necessary by the abusiveness of his wife, and putting forward a pro-forma defense to let the court know of the circumstances.

Maynard testified that he was married to Ida May Maynard in 1885 to Ida May Maynard. He said that they lived together in Norwich, Massapee and Fisher's Island. On Jan. 19, 1905, they were at Fisher's Island, he said that Mrs. Maynard deserted him and had never returned. Maynard said that he explained his desertion by his wife's fondness for a Mr. Eldridge, from whom the Maynards had rented the house they occupied on Fisher's Island. One day Maynard said he saw Mrs. Maynard kiss Eldridge and that he remonstrated with her, telling her that "she wasn't setting a very good example for the children." The same night Mrs. Maynard, witness said, refused to occupy the same room as he and from then on did not get his meals, make his bed or in any way tend to a person's wants.

Mrs. Maynard said in her behalf on the witness stand that she had been forced to drive Maynard from their home on Fisher's Island because he was so abusive. She admitted that in so doing she had committed technical desertion, but she claimed that she was doing so because it was best for herself and children. Mrs. Maynard said that she had decided to enter a defense on grounds of desertion, although she hoped the decree would be granted for her own sake and for the children's sake.

Both parents wish the custody of the second son, William, who is now with the mother, and the contest was really over him.

The case of Isabella Perry vs. Isabella Rodero was set for the assignment of the case of John L. Burrows vs.
Burrows, appeal from probate, as the appellant has died since the case was assigned.

The single case of Lucy E. Collins vs. appeal from probate, is down for trial.

This case was started something over a year ago, when an application was made to Judge of Probate Alfred Cott of New London for the removal of the estate of Erelina B. Tinker. At the time of the death of Mrs. Tinker it was thought that the estate comprised the homestead at Four Corners, Jordan, and several thousand dollars worth of United States government bonds purchased during the Civil war and deposited in a safe deposit vault in one of the New London banks, and which the applicant claimed he was unable to find. The will of the deceased was a peculiar document. It was claimed at the time that the will alone was made in the records at the probate court in that the names of Harry and Byron Tinker had been inscribed in the records at the probate court at Lakeville and Byron is at the Norwich hospital for the insane.

The will provides that Mr. Tinker, who lived 25 years of age, should be provided with means of support for the remainder of his life, and this he claims he has never received.

A. O. H. LITERARY EVENING.

Rev. F. L. Fitzpatrick Speaks on Early Immigration of the Irish.

There was a large attendance Tuesday evening in Hibernian hall for the monthly literary evening conducted by the Second division, A. O. H. delegations from the First division and from the Taftville division attending in good numbers.

The speaker for the evening was Rev. F. L. Fitzpatrick of St. Joseph's parish, whose address was warmly applauded by his hearers. He spoke in an interesting way. He spoke of the early immigration of the Irish to this country, comparing it with the immigration today and contrasting the hardships of the early immigrants with the ease and comfort of the present immigrants. He also dwelt at length upon the prominence attained in all walks of life by the descendants of those who endured the hardships of the early times.

Three candidates were initiated and five applications received. The committee on the competitive essays upon the Irish in American history reported great interest in this subject among the school children and the prospects of the future are very bright. The evening was a most successful one.
The committee also reported every prospect of a most successful evening on the night of St. Patrick's day.

ed on Tuesday as the county candidate riculture.

7. The danger of substituting non-essentials for life's true essentials.
That the Emmanuel movement has decidedly not been a failure. There can be no candid question. That it is best with serious peril is equally evident. It is also significant that the attitude toward it of the medical profession and of the religious press is one of conservatism and criticism.
Notwithstanding all this, it is widening its influence and activities, and multiplying its victories. It ought to be according the freest reasonable chance to demonstrate its claims without coercion. If it is of God it will triumph.
If not it ought to fail. Time will tell.
